project description

Dubravica Culture and Tourist Center is conceived as three curved volumes located between elementary school and Pavao Štoos street. The volumes are set in the northeast southwest direction. The future Cultural and Tourist center will combine several different functions, which requires the programmatic and formal flexibility in the use of space by different users. The new cultural and tourist center is designed as a place for gathering and socializing of locals, a space for non-profit associations and a center for various activities.

All planned facilities are designed within three connected volumes, so that in the western volume is located the entrance hall, wardrobe and café bar. In the central volume there are multifunctional halls, a gallery and tourist Information Centre.

It is possible to connect all the multifunctional halls as well as the gallery and tourist center space in one singular total space, allowing for a functional flexibility. Along the north façade of the central volume there is also a small winter garden that can serve as a behind stage space in various scenarios using multifunctional halls. Within the third, east volume, there are office spaces for non-profit organizations with meeting rooms and kitchenettes.

On the ground floor there are facilities for visitors, storage rooms and economic areas. Vertical communications are solved by staircase and elevator. From the upper floor there is a possibility to go to the roof terrace which is located above the central volume.
